

MAGDA

Clara Kimball Young
and her own company
in MAGDA

SELECT  PICTURES

MARGARET
TURNBULL

Clara Kimball Young

AND HER OWN COMPANY IN MAGDA

Adapted from the famous play by the same name
Select Pictures Corp. - - Distributors

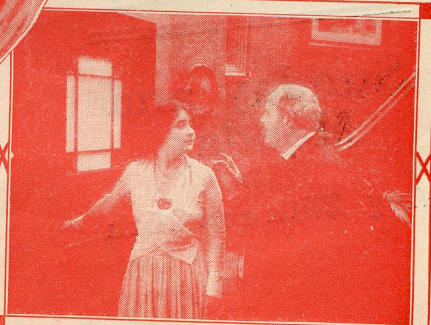

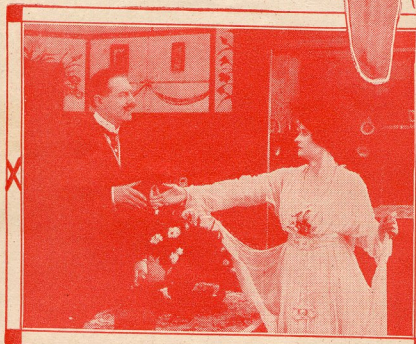

Cast of Characters

Magda . . . CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
 The Mother . . . Alice Gale
 Marie Schwartz . . . Valkyrien
 Fransiska . . . Kitty Baldwin
 Theresa . . . Maude Ford
 Pastor . . . Thomas Holding
 Father . . . Edward Kimball
 Kellner . . . Edmund Fielding
 Max George Merlo

"Magda," by Herman Sudermann, is the story of a girl whose father believes that the father's will is the will of the whole household.

Magda is a beautiful girl with a gift for music. The pastor of her father's church falls in love with her. The father tells her that she must either marry the pastor or leave his house. Ten years later, at a great musical festival in the town, Magda, now a great singer, known as Madalene Dall'Orto, appears. The pastor, whom she refused and who still loves her, has been instrumental in getting her to return to her father's home. Magda does so on condition that her father will ask no questions about her outside life. Magda meets at her father's house the man who, years ago when she was alone and friendless studying music, betrayed her. The events which follow, leave Magda to live her own life.

SELECT PICTURES

Vaudette Theatre

Sunday and Monday

Aug. 25th and 26th

MAGDA

MARGARET
TURNBULL